

State & Regional Construction Forecasts—2025/26

Comprehensive, detailed information on building & construction in each state, and each region, of Australia

Subscribe to one or more states — or to a single region

In this new Macromonitor service, each report includes the following information:

Reliable building & construction data by region:

- Value of work done by each type of building and construction work—for every region in your state
- Number of dwellings approved and commenced, for each type of dwelling
- Value of non-residential building commenced and work done, by 15 building types
- Work done for 20 categories of engineering construction, including detailed road types, and sub-segments of transport infrastructure, utilities and resources
- Road maintenance by type of work
- Forecasts for all data covering the next ten years, plus 20 years of historical data

List of major projects in the state, by region and sector:

- Can be filtered by each region, and by each type of building and construction work
- Value of work done by year—historical and forecast, based on thorough research of values and expected timing of projects
- List of projects and annual values align with the data and forecasts of activity by region

Written report on each state:

- An overview of the outlook for building and construction in each state
- Explanation of the drivers of activity in each sector
- Notes on key regions and key sectors of growth
- Charts and tables illustrating the outlook

Subscribers receive a new edition four times per year — in the mid-month of each quarter
